John Lok is the principal consultant of FengShui0011.com. Since 2004 he had started his professional practice in the field of Chinese metaphysics analogy. During early 90's, John has been studying various Chinese metaphysics analogy in the field of Geomancy, Life analysis, and many other disciplines.

He is a Bachelor of Business graduate from the University of Tasmania (Australia) and had applied his knowledge of Information Studies which he acquired from the Information Studies of M.S. course in Nanyang Technological University.

John had discovered traditional knowledge of Feng Shui, Bazi, Chinese Name analysis and other Chinese metaphysics are truly the information classification systems for the material world, and they are amazingly accurate in interpreting our life's as they are the experiential science which has been passed down since thousands of years in China. Hence, he had decided to offer all he had learned to the public at large in order to share the benefits he had discovered.

Besides residential properties, John's clientele include international banks, telecommunications and international delivery services organisations, and many private companies.

His media coverage include annual forecasting review for Chinese Asia Week, annual forecasting comment for local Chinese newspaper and TV interview by BBC news Asia Bureau.
